Lead Detective:	Renee Broussard, Badge #1887, Homicide Division
Case Number:	PBPB-2025-088142
Victim:	Marcus Webb, M/B, 34
Notes Period:	October 3, 2025 – October 15, 2025
Status:	ACTIVE — No arrests as of final entry date
Classification:	HOMICIDE — Blunt Force Trauma

OCT 4 — 3:05 AM

Got the call from Homicide dispatch. On scene by 3:20 AM. Thibodaux did a solid job holding the perimeter. Victim is face-down in the alley, significant blood loss, no weapon. CSU requested. The alley stinks of stale beer and garbage — this is two hundred feet from Bourbon Street on a Friday night. Anyone could have walked through here. The camera is the key. Need to pull that footage tonight.

OCT 4 — 3:40 AM

Spoke with Darnell Washington in the alley. He's a night owl — says he comes out here to smoke most nights because his landlord doesn't allow it inside. He saw three men enter the alley from the staff door around 1:20 AM. Can't give me faces — it was dark and he was thirty feet away. He says one had a red shirt. He heard 'raised voices and some kind of scuffle' but not words. He went inside. That's all he's got. But it's something.

OCT 4 — 4:15 AM

Phillip Arceneaux (bar owner) let me look at the indoor DVR. Gold. The indoor camera shows a heated argument at the bar — three white men squaring up on a Black male. Bartender (young blonde woman — need her ID) gets in between. At 1:15 AM, the Black male (victim) goes out the back. At 1:18 AM, all three white males go out the same door. Three minutes apart. Then the alley camera goes dark. 22 MINUTES. When it comes back at 1:37 AM, Marcus Webb is already on the ground.

OCT 4 — 5:00 AM

CAMERA GAP: Arceneaux says the alley cam 'malfunctions sometimes.' I don't buy it. 22 minutes of darkness, starts exactly when the suspects enter the alley, ends when the victim is already down and they've cleared out? That is not a malfunction. That is deletion or interference. Flagging Digital Forensics for full DVR examination.

OCT 4 — 6:00 AM

Ryan McCall was found in his car two blocks over at 3 AM. He says he left the bar at 1 AM. The indoor camera has him leaving through the BACK DOOR at 1:18 AM with the other two. He's lying. Cell tower data will tell the story — put in the request.

OCT 4 — 8:30 AM

Search warrant signed by Judge Fonville. Executing warrants today. Derek Fontenot's Nike Air Force 1 (left foot) — blood on the sole. Lab needs to type it. If it's A+, that matches Marcus Webb. Fontenot says he stepped in a puddle on Bourbon. Bourbon Street has a lot of things on the ground at 2 AM. Blood from a beating victim is not typically one of them.

OCT 4 — 9:00 AM

Travis Bell — fresh laceration, right knuckle area, over the index and middle finger. He says he fell. The laceration pattern is consistent with striking a hard surface or a face. The bruising pattern around it is not consistent with a fall. These are fighting knuckles. Getting the medical examiner to look at the photos.

OCT 5 — 10:00 AM

Autopsy with Dr. Guidry today. Preliminary findings: multiple blunt force impacts to head and face, rib fractures (3 ribs — bilateral), boot/shoe impression pattern on torso consistent with stomping. TOD estimated 1:30–2:15 AM. BAC 0.14 — Marcus was drunk but functional. They didn't catch him passed out. They went after him.

OCT 6 — 2:00 PM

DNA prelim back. Epithelial cells on Marcus's shirt collar consistent with Derek Fontenot — someone grabbed him by the collar. DNA under his fingernails — unknown male, cannot exclude Travis Bell. Marcus fought back. Good for him. Not enough for him.

OCT 7 — 9:00 AM

Cell tower data confirmed: Ryan McCall's phone pinged a tower covering the alley area at 1:28 AM. He was NOT in his car at 1 AM like he says. He was in that alley or right next to it when Marcus Webb was being beaten to death. Also — found a call log item: Derek called Ryan at 1:14 AM. That's the rally call. 'Come on, let's go.' One minute later, Derek calls Travis. Four minutes later, all three walk out the back door. This was coordinated.

OCT 8 — 4:00 PM

Text message recovered from Travis Bell's phone: sent to Derek at 2:48 AM on October 4th — 'Don't say anything.' Six minutes after a 911 call reported Marcus's body. Travis KNEW. They all knew.

OCT 8 — 5:00 PM

Re-interviewed bartender Shannon O'Brien. Her first statement only mentioned Derek Fontenot. She was holding back. Today she told me all three were involved in the altercation. And she told me Travis Bell said — verbatim — 'we'll finish this outside.' That is a direct verbal threat, premeditation, seven minutes before they killed Marcus Webb. Why didn't she tell me this first? She knows these guys. The Rusty Anchor is their regular bar.

OCT 10 — 11:00 AM

Forensic shoe analysis: Derek's Nike AF1, sole pattern matches the partial shoe impression in blood at the scene. MATCHES. The blood on his shoe is A+, matching the victim. I have him at the scene. I have him stomping Marcus Webb.

OCT 12 — 2:00 PM

Anonymous tip via tip line: caller says Derek Fontenot was 'bragging about what happened' at a bar called Patout's on Magazine Street on Saturday afternoon — the day after the murder. Need to canvass Patout's, pull their cameras, find the witnesses. This could be the witness that puts the nail in.

OCT 15 — 3:00 PM

Status: All three suspects have retained counsel. No confessions. Building circumstantial case. Evidence: (1) motive — altercation over Derek's ex; (2) opportunity — all three on scene per camera and cell data; (3) physical evidence — Derek's blood-soaked shoe with scene-matching sole, DNA, Travis's fighting knuckles; (4) Travis's 'don't say anything' text; (5) Ryan's contradicted alibi; (6) Shannon's second statement with verbal threat. The 22-minute camera gap is the biggest hole in the case. Need to prove it was intentional. Digital Forensics working on it. Preparing case summary for DA presentation.
